NATIONAL INSTITUTE FOR CAREER EDUCATION AND COUNSELLING

www.nicec.org

The National Institute for Career Education and Counselling (NICEC) is distinctive as a boundary-crossing network devoted to career education and counselling in education, in the workplace, and in the wider community. It seeks to integrate theory and practice in career development, stimulate intellectual diversity and encourage transdisciplinary dialogue. Through these activities, NICEC aims to develop research, inform policy and enhance service delivery.

NICEC was founded in 1975 and has continued to evolve since then. It now operates as a learned society for reflective practitioners in the broad field of career education, career guidance, career counselling and career development.

Membership of NICEC is open to all individuals connected with career development.

Journal of the National Institute for Career Education and Counselling

The Journal of the National Institute for Career Education and Counselling is published in partnership with the Career Development Institute (CDI). The journal publishes articles on the broad theme of career development in any context including:

- Career development in the workplace
- Career development in education
- Career development in the community

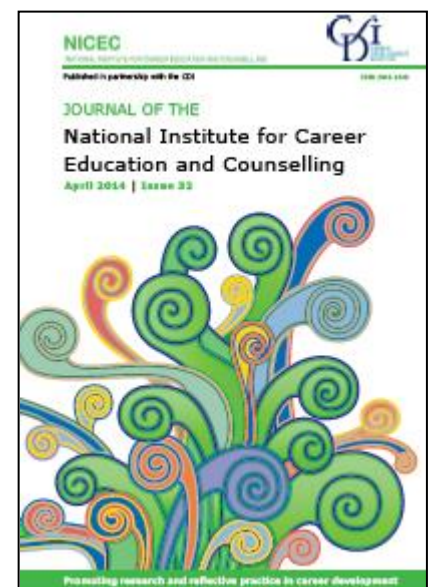

It is designed to be read by individuals who are involved in career development-related work in a wide range of settings.
